

Emma and Tom are two knowledgeable and competent road cyclists.

They often go on tours around the world with thier club members.

They're always looking for new places where to ride their bikes.

Emma prefers guided tours.

Tom prefers to ride on your own.

Emma: << I came across this site, surfing the web: Lakes Northern Italy Bike Tours. It is truly packed with information! You've probably never heard of it, but it seems that around the Swiss-Italian lakes there are both several excellent climbs and undulating routes away from traffic.

We and our club members have never been there in that area.

I would be tempted to explore it. What do you think if we talk about it a bit ? >>

Tom: << Yes, I've also heard that it is an area particularly suitable for cycling: it offers you the possibility to lengthen or shorten your rides according to your fitness level.

But, what have you understood in particular ? >>

Emma: << They offer guided group tours and private tours based on two hotels.

Weeklong or shorter tours, and daily rides on your own as well.

I'd like a guided tour.

I hate the thought of losing my way. >>

Tom: << In truth, I would like to go there too, but I love to arrange the rides on my own.

You know I have all my personal sources to get info and find my way.

It is only a matter of time and method.

In my opinion the arrangements of my tours are a part of the fun.

I've been doing it for years for our club members. >>

Emma: << Yeah, ... your methods for riding without others' help ... How many times we took the wrong roads, or we rode for kms in traffic ... No way! I'm on holiday and I want to enjoy it.

I want to make easy and smooth what I love without all the hassles of spending hours searching for safe and enjoyable cycling routes.

Let the locals do it.

They know the roads like the back of their hands. >>

Emma Tom

Tom: << All right, all right! But I'd also prefer to pay attention to costs, to be independent and self reliant. A lot of club members think like me. >>

Emma: << If you independently want to ride your bike around, I have also read that the two hotels offer a mini website to the guests.

You can find a series of routes that start right from the hotels (description, routes, elevation gains, gpx files).

So you can relax and enjoy the ride, without having to do a lot of research on your own!

You can also find other practical info regarding the Italian-Swiss Lake District in the web page Cycling Resources of the site LNIBT. >>

Tom: << Ah, interesting!
So we all can agree, both people who think like you and people who think like me. >>
